RECONCILIATION

St Joan's, Victor Harbor - Saturday
11am - 11.30am, or by appointment.

FIRST READING

Ecclesiasticus 3:17-20, 28-29

My son, be gentle in carrying out your business, and you will be better loved than a lavish giver. The greater you are, the more you should behave humbly, and then you will find favour with the Lord; for great though the power of the Lord is, he accepts the homage of the humble. There is no cure for the proud man's malady, since an evil growth has taken root in him. The heart of a sensible man will reflect on parables, an attentive ear is the sage's dream.

RESPONSORIAL PSALM

Ps 67:4-7, 10-11

God, in your goodness, you have made a home for the poor.

1. The just shall rejoice at the presence of God. They shall exult and dance for joy. O sing to the Lord, make music to his name; rejoice in the Lord, exult at his presence. <R>
2. Father of the orphan, defender of the widow, such is God in his holy place. God gives the lonely a home to live in; he leads the prisoners forth into freedom. <R>
3. You poured down, O God, a generous rain: when your people were starved you gave them new life. It was there that your people found a home, prepared in your goodness, O God, for the poor. <R>

SECOND READING

Hebrews 12:18-19, 22-24

What you have come to is nothing known to the senses: not a blazing fire, or a gloom turning to total darkness, or a storm; or trumpeting thunder or the great voice speaking which made everyone that heard it beg that no more should be said to them. But what you have come to is Mount Zion and the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem where the millions of angels have gathered for the festival, with the whole Church in which everyone is a 'first-born son' and a citizen of heaven. You have come to God himself, the supreme Judge, and been placed with spirits of the saints who have been made perfect; and to Jesus, the mediator who brings a new covenant.

GOSPEL ACCLAMATION

Mt 11:29

Alleluia, alleluia!

*Take my yoke upon you; learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart.
Alleluia!*

GOSPEL

Luke 14:1, 7-14

On a sabbath day Jesus had gone for a meal to the house of one of the leading Pharisees; and they watched him closely. He then told the guests a parable, because he had noticed how they picked the places of honour.

He said this, 'When someone invites you to a wedding feast, (Continued page 4)

SOCIAL JUSTICE SUNDAY - 31st AUGUST

SOCIAL JUSTICE STATEMENT

Signs of Hope on the Edge:

Serving Homeless People with Mental Ill Health

Australia is facing a growing crisis: over 273,000 people sought help from homelessness services last year, many also struggling with mental illness, while services are stretched beyond capacity. This year's Social Justice Statement calls us to follow Jesus' example - seeing, listening to and caring for those on the margins of society.

FORGIVENESS

Last Sunday Father Roderick introduced us to the powerful story of Jan Ruff-O'Herne. She was a migrant from Dutch Java, a member of our Archdiocese, a teacher in our schools, who passed away in 2019. In the midst of her suffering in a prison camp in Java during WW2 she tells how she used the words of Jesus on the Cross: "Forgive them Father, for they know not what they do".

Father Roderick spoke of Jan's process for forgiveness:

The victim makes the first move, as soon as they can.

Forgiveness is one-sided and unconditional.

Healing may come through for forgiveness or may come later.

Reconciliation may come through forgiveness or might never come.

Forgiving does not mean forgetting.

Recently Pope Leo spoke of the same forgiveness:

"This is the scandal of "PREVENTIVE" FORGIVENESS — forgiveness that comes first, without requiring any pre-conditions. The Gospel of John describes Jesus offering bread even to Judas who betrays him. Offering him forgiveness.

Jesus forgives us unreservedly. Let us ask for his forgiveness.

Is there someone in our lives whom we are called to forgive?

Do we ourselves need to ask for forgiveness from someone?

Jan Ruff-O'Herne's story is found in her book "50 years of Silence".

It can be borrowed through the library.

She appeared on Australian Story in 2007.

do not take your seat in the place of honour. A more distinguished person than you may have been invited, and the person who invited you both may come and say, "Give up your place to this man." And then, to your embarrassment, you would have to go and take the lowest place. No; when you are a guest, make your way to the lowest place and sit there, so that, when your host comes, he may say, "My friend, move up higher." In that way, everyone with you at the table will see you honoured. For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, and the man who humbles himself will be exalted.'

Then he said to his host, 'When you give a lunch or a dinner, do not ask your friends, brothers, relations or rich neighbours, for fear they repay your courtesy by inviting you in return. No; when you have a party, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind; that they cannot pay you back means that you are fortunate, because repayment will be made to you when the virtuous rise again.'

THE TABLE AT THE COMMUNITY BBQ

It was the parish community BBQ, and the oval was buzzing. Families spread picnic rugs, kids chased footies, the band was warming up, and the smell of sausages drifted through the air.

As people lined up for food, the long rows of trestle tables quickly filled. At one end, the "important" seats were taken fast - the parish council members, the school principal, a few well-known business owners in the community. Their table was loud with laughter, selfies, and chatter about upcoming projects.

At the other end, near the bins and a little further from the action, a small group sat quietly. A mum new to the country, still learning English. An older man who'd lost his wife last year and rarely left the house. A couple of teenagers on the edge of things, glued to their phones but clearly not part of any group.

People walked past them, maybe smiled politely, but kept heading towards the "better" seats.

One young family arrived late, plates in hand, and for a moment they hesitated. There were spots open at both ends. The kids wanted to sit near their friends in the noisy crowd, but the parents paused. They glanced down the row, noticed the quiet group, and made a decision.

"Let's sit here."

At first, the conversation was stilted. But soon, something shifted. The mum from overseas shyly offered to share some homemade food she had brought. The older man's face lit up when the kids asked about his football days. The teenagers laughed when someone showed them how to win at the sausage sizzle raffle. By the end of the afternoon, that table - once ignored - was alive with energy, laughter, and real connection.

On the way home, the father said quietly, "You know, I think we found the best seats in the place today."

This is exactly what Jesus was getting at in today's Gospel. True blessing doesn't come from being seen in the "important" seats, from status or recognition. It comes when we choose to sit with those who are overlooked, when we make space for those who cannot repay us, when we give our attention and love where it's least expected.

The challenge for us today is simple but confronting: at school, at work, at parish events, even around our own dinner tables - where do we sit? Do we rush to be with the familiar and comfortable, or do we slow down, notice who is left out, and choose to sit there instead?

That choice can change everything. It might just be the place where God's Kingdom comes alive - around an ordinary table, with unlikely people, where everyone finally feels they belong.
